School Histories

Lower Canada College began as St. John's School in 1861. In 1909, the school moved to its present location in suburban Montreal and was renamed Lower Canada College by its founder, Dr. Charles Fosbery.

The school has evolved from a small boarding school with 150 students to a day school with 645 students from Kindergarten to Grade 12, and this year, the school has become completely co-educational.

The school's facilities include a seven acre campus on which there is a main building with a Junior School, Middle School, Senior School, and a separate Kindergarten facility, adjacent to the main building. Other facilities include two modern computer labs, art and language facilities, a lecture theatre with state of the art audio-visual equipment, a 23,000 volume Library, a dining hall/theatre with full stage, a pre-university student centre as well as three full-size playing fields, two gyms, and an artificial ice rink.

Over the years, LCC has graduated future Rhodes Scholars, presidents of major universities, world-renowned scientists, federal and provincial politicians, and numerous leaders and pioneers in medicine, business and the arts. Today, LCC is recognized internationally as a leading and progressive educational institution.

We are honoured to be co-hosting this prestigious soccer tournament.

LOWER CANADA COLLEGE

The founder of Selwyn House School, Mr. Algernon Lucas, came to Montreal in 1908 having graduated from Selwyn College in the University of Cambridge. In a small flat he opened what was first known as Lucas School. As the school grew, the name changed to Selwyn House School, in honour of his alma mater.

From a handful of pupils in that private apartment, Selwyn House grew into a highly respected preparatory school well-known throughout the country. In 1945, Selwyn House became incorporated as Selwyn House Association and has since evolved into an independent school offering a complete elementary and secondary education of high quality.

The school is now located in Westmount, a residential city adjacent to downtown Montreal, and has grown from 7 to 530 students. It is a non-denominational school for boys in Kindergarten through Grade 11. Selwyn House attracts students from a wide variety of ethnic and economic backgrounds. Currently, the students come from 32 different communities in the greater Montreal area.

Selwyn House provides an education of exceptional depth and scope in preparation for entrance to university. The programme is complemented by a comprehensive and challenging athletic and extra-curricular programme. Each student is encouraged to work to the best of his ability and to develop a strong sense of responsibility toward the school community and his studies. Our goals are that students will acquire positive attitudes to scholarship and recreation, learn clarity of thinking and self expression, and guide themselves with a high degree of personal integrity.

Education is a partnership at Selwyn. Families, students, teachers and coaches work together to make the educational experience of each student rich and rewarding. Selwyn House offers new experiences to students at various grade levels whether it be French Immersion, the Learning Co-op, the Middle School or an interesting Arts option.

As we co-host this year's tournament, we would like to thank the participants and all those involved in making it a success.
